Integration update – Core Team and Business Area Teams named

This message is being shared with all Exelon and Constellation employees on behalf of Ron DeGregorio, senior vice president and chief integration officer, Exelon, and Steve Woerner, vice president, chief information officer and integration lead, Constellation.

As you know, Exelon and Constellation have begun seeking federal and state regulatory approval for their proposed merger. As we work with regulators and other external stakeholders, we have also begun the integration planning process. This parallel internal activity is critical to ensure we are fully prepared to launch and operate our combined business once all required approvals have been obtained. This note is intended to update you on the integration planning process and the teams that are being formed to help lead it.

As both companies said in our merger announcements last month, we are fully committed to sharing information with you as soon as it is available. In the next few weeks, we will introduce a new integration newsletter, designed to keep you up-to-date on things you need to know about the integration process. Much of what is included in this publication and other integration communications will focus on the activities of two groups – made up of representatives from both Exelon and Constellation – that will drive integration: the Core Team and the ten Business Area Teams.

The Core Team is made up of a group of individuals who will help guide specific functions related to the transition, throughout integration. In addition, the Core Team and its project management function will support the business area teams in collecting and analyzing data, addressing any issues that arise between functional areas and helping speed effective decision-making and problem solving.

The following individuals have been asked to serve as members of the Core Team:

Function	Exelon Representative	Constellation Representative
Human Resources	Amy Best	Tom Ruszin
Communications	Laura Duda	Rob Gould
Information Technology	Tom Clewett	Ken Allred
Finance	Karie Anderson	Diane Mason
Project Management	Cort Cousino	Will Ewing

The Business Area Teams, representing all functional areas of the combined company, are responsible for analyzing the two companies' functional organizations, and for designing what the post-merger organization will look like for their function(s). Each of these teams will include additional members, and some (like Shared Services/Corporate) will include multiple sub-teams to ensure all functions are represented in the process.

The following individuals have been asked to represent their functional areas on the Business Area Teams for the integration:

Function	Exelon Representative	Constellation Representative
Finance*	Karie Anderson	Diane Mason

Human Resources	Amy Best	Tom Ruszin
Information Technology	Tom Clewett	Ken Allred
Legal	Glenn Newman	Denise Galambos
Nuclear	Carol Peterson	Steve Miller
Power (non-Nuclear)	Glen Robinson	Frank Andracchi
Shared Services/Corporate	Susan Weiss	Wynne Hayes
Supply Chain	Dave O'Brien	Dave Villa
Utility Operations	Charlie White	John Borkoski
Wholesale/Retail/Trading	Joe Nigro	Ed Quinn

* includes Internal Audit, Treasury, Accounting, Corporate Planning, Tax, Investor Relations, Risk, Investments/Pension, Business Operations/Process Improvement

 Shared Services / Corporate Center includes: Commercial Operations Group, Communications, Corporate Development, Corporate Strategy, Government Affairs, Federal Regulatory Affairs, Payroll/A/P/Workers' Comp, Real Estate, TransCo

For an organizational view of how these two groups fit together, please see the attached chart.

Both of these groups will be gathering in Baltimore on June 1 and 2 for a joint meeting to formally kick off the integration process. We will recap that event for you in the first issue of our integration newsletter. Beyond this event, we expect our next major milestone will be the naming of the new Executive Committee in mid-summer. At that point, the new Executive Committee will spend time identifying and forming their leadership teams.

Thank you, in advance, for your support of the work of these two teams.
